

Accelerate student learning over the summer with Paper™

At Paper, we believe nothing should stop learning—and we recognize that for many students, this practice extends into the summer months. With this in mind, we've worked to make Paper an ideal summer school tool for learners and educators alike! Read on for more insight into how Paper can bolster students' confidence by offering unlimited academic support as well as independent reading and math practice.

How Paper helps in the summer school classroom

Use Paper to support teachers covering new grades or courses

Over the summer, some teachers might have to support students in grades or subjects they haven't taught recently. Teachers can lean on Paper to help fill that gap: Students can access Paper's Live Help to connect with tutors who are experts in any subject area.

Encourage students in credit-recovery classes to take advantage of Paper

Students taking credit recovery courses during summer school can receive additional academic support from Paper. Regardless of the credit recovery platform they're using, students can work directly with Paper's expert tutors through our Chrome extension or on mobile devices.

Accelerate learning and close the gaps

Paper can help accelerate student learning over the summer months with opportunities for independent practice in reading and math. Teachers can identify gaps in prerequisite knowledge so students can master grade-level standards on Paper Reading or Paper Math. With that, they'll feel confident and ready to learn new content during the upcoming school year.

How Paper works at home over summer break

Crush summer reading lists with Paper Reading

Students can use Paper Reading to level up their reading skills over break. Paper Reading listens to students as they read aloud to provide helpful metrics, and the immediate feedback helps learners improve quickly. Positive reinforcement tools (like reading coins) also make practicing at home fun and rewarding. At the same time, teachers will have a recording of these sessions and can assess students' fluency and proficiency when everyone returns in the fall.

Use Paper's Live Help for assistance with summer assignments

Remind students that they're only one click away from receiving support on summer assignments. With new features like Voice Notes and recorded whiteboard sessions, Live Help has never been more accessible to all learners. Students can start a Live Help session 24/7—even through the summer months.

Practice math at home with Paper Missions

With Paper Missions, students can keep their math skills sharp with no-pressure interactive math problems—no matter their comfort with math. Missions are consistently updated so that students are always challenged as they practice their skills.

For more insights into how Paper can help your summer school students, reach out to your customer success manager