

PAPER

Characterization Analysis

Authors use direct and indirect characterization to help create vivid characters. After reading the text provided by your teacher, complete this character analysis. After identifying indirect and direct characterization for two characters, log onto Paper Live Chat to get feedback on whether or not you correctly identified the two concepts.

Title of the text:
Author:		Identify a Main Character to Analyze:
Describe the Character in Your Own Words:	How do they see themselves?	How do others see them?
What do we learn about them through their actions?	What we learn about them through their words/thoughts:

Indirect Characterization: the process of describing a character through that character's thoughts, actions, speech, and dialogue. An author guides the reader in making their own conclusions about a character. Find three examples from the text and write them below.

Who	Quotation	What it shows

Direct Characterization: explicitly tells the reader how the character acts or behaves. Find three examples from the text and write them below.

Who	Quotation	What it shows

Log onto Paper Live Chat and share the examples of Direct and Indirect Characterization you listed above. Get feedback from the tutor and revise your work if needed.

Summarize the feedback you received from your Paper Live Chat Tutor:
----------------------------------------------------------------------	--